Dear Valued Customer,

We are excited to announce to our customers that Wholesale Doors (WDI) and Cleary Millwork have signed an agreement in which Cleary will acquire WDI effective January 3, 2017.

Wholesale Doors will become the commercial division of Cleary Millwork and continue their focus servicing on a 2-step basis the commercial door, frame and hardware industry along with Cleary and Wholesale Door's existing lumber dealers.

This transaction allows Cleary to add a location in Watertown and greatly expand its in-stock inventory of flush architectural wood doors, hollow metal frames and doors, aluminum frames, toilet partitions and accessory products with our extensive millwork offering. By joining the two companies we will strengthen our capacity to modify, machine, prehang and prefinish all types of doors. WDI and Cleary combined will have two automated flat line finishing operations and 5 spray booths to apply clear, stain or paint finishes with quick delivery of our extensive product offerings.

Over the next 45 days please continue to do business as usual with both companies as we work to integrate many of the WDI systems with Cleary. Ken Montuori as current owner of WDI will be helping to merge the combined companies over the next year. Ken, along with Colum Clarke, Sales Manager, and Warren Withrow, Operations Manager, will be leading the Watertown operation with responsibilities similar to their existing roles and are available to discuss any of your questions, concerns and suggestions. Erik Jellinek, Cleary's Sales Manager and Peter Humphrey are available to answer any Cleary related questions.

Thank you for your support as we go through the process of transitioning our two systems and cultures into one. We look forward to providing you, our valued customer, with the improved service and expanded product offerings.

Sincerely,

Peter Humphrey
President
Cleary Millwork

Ken Montuori
